CAVALRY IN THE VALLEY.

What has become of General Milroy's cavalry that were in such not pursuit of Moseby and his men a few days ago ! Major Adams, of be Lincoln cavalry, was the officer who led the pursuit, and a Baltimore cotemporary has decribed him as performing prodigies of valorwimming his horse across a river, &c., &c. We believe that this prodigions valor, however, was displayed in getting out of Moseby's way. We have good authority for saying that Adams name up with Moseby, who had only thirty men, but 'natesd of bagging the lot, as he should have doue, insemuch as he had a whole regiment with him, Mose'ry killed turee of adams's men, wounded others, took several prisoners, and took his departure, treating the loughty Major with contempt. We have seen r from an officer in Winchester, dated THE ENEMY ON THE MOVE. the 21st, in which it is stated that "Major Adams had charges preferred against him for cowardice before the enemy last week, and that A Raid into Maryland Contemplated, he has resigned his commission." We hop this matter will be thoroughly investigated, and that no officer will be permitted to resign in the face of such charges. Evidently things are not has they should be up there is the Valley. The season has arrived wher the very est military talent, as well as unquestioned covalty, is required at that particular point. We have reached from the Banitary Commis-tion a vote of from the Banitary Commis-tion a vote of the Banitary and Guarantine Convention. the importance and economy of sanitary measures to cities, 0, John Beil, M. The importance of the hints contained in this Tolume can hardly be overestimated. The repuri of Dr. Bell is very full and exhaustive upon the subject of which it treats, and the Sanitary Code prepared by Dr. Clark suggests the metand of reducing the theory to practice. On the evening of the 3d September, 1889, the plaintiff heard that Mr. Boucicault had made an appointment to meet his wife at her ledgings, and he thereupon, with a gentleman named Jameson, repaired to the house in Pall-mail. They washed in the street for some time, and ultimately about twelve o'clock a brougham stopped at the house, and having deposited a lady, whom the plaintiff believed was his wife, then drove up King street, St. James's. Mr. Jameson remained watching the house whilst the plaintiff followed the brougham. Having discovered that the brougham stopped in front of Mr. Boucicault's office, he returned to Mr. Jameson, and after watching the house for some time a lady appeared at an open window as if watching for some one.
